

TABB-STREET CHURCH OPEN

The Old Edifice Handsomely Painted and Refurnished.

BISHOP WILSON PREACHES

Petersburg Grays Are Inspected With Full Ranks—Jurors Have Little to Say.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PETERSBURG, VA., November 7.—Tabb Street Presbyterian Church, after having been closed for some months, was reopened on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. J. S. Foster, preached to large congregations morning and night. The church has been painted inside and out and handsomely refurnished, and is now one of the largest and most attractive church buildings in the State. It was originally built in 1844, and has numbered among its pastors many of the most distinguished Presbyterian ministers in this country.

Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson, who will preside at the coming session of the Virginia Methodist Episcopal Conference, preached at Washington Street Methodist Church to large congregations both morning and night.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION. The General Baptist Association of this State will convene on the 15th instant in the First Baptist Church of this city. A large attendance is expected. The clerical and lay delegates will be entertained in the homes of citizens. The church has been painted inside and out and seating capacity enlarged.

Colonel Jo Lano Stern, Inspector-general for the State, inspected the Petersburg Grays, Captain A. R. Moody commanding, at their armory Saturday night. The company had full ranks and was found in fine condition.

The Petersburg jurors in the McCue case have returned home from Charlottesville. They have little to say of what occurred among them during their sojourn. They state that only one ballot was taken, and that resulted in a unanimous verdict of murder in the first degree.

THE MARKETS.

There are large daily receipts of new peanuts in this market. The new crop is said to be much larger than heretofore reported, and will bring twenty per cent. better than last year's crop. The new Spanish peanuts are bringing eighty cents per bushel.

The special board of directors of the Central State Hospital, Commissioner Lane presiding, held their regular monthly meeting to-day. Only routine business was transacted. The election of druggist and mechanical engineer did not come up at this meeting. These officers will be elected at a future meeting, probably the next one.

The receipts of tobacco in this market so far have been very small, owing to the drought. All tobacco sold has brought full prices. It is expected by the warehousemen here that the receipts will shortly increase the receipts. The orders in the market for all grades are large.

The Right Rev. A. M. Randolph, of the Diocese of Southern Virginia, will visit St. Stephen's (colored) Episcopal Church in this city Thursday. He will be accompanied by Rev. H. J. Beagan, of Urbana, who has moved to Philadelphia to reside. Mr. Beagan having recently accepted a call to an Episcopal church there. Mr. D. B. Edkins has sold his farm in Greene county to Mr. R. A. Breeden for $6,250.

New Hope Methodist Episcopal Church, in King and Queen counties, was dedicated yesterday. Rev. H. H. Bennett preaching the dedicatory sermon.

A COMPROMISE.

Big Fire Insurance Claims Settled Out of Court.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

DANVILLE, VA., November 7.—The suit of the Traveler-Spencer Company against thirty-one insurance companies for $90,000, insurance carried on their tobacco factory and the stock which was recently destroyed fire, has been settled outside of court to the satisfaction of the plaintiffs.

The insurance companies were represented by Peatross and Harris, of this city; Judge A. A. Phlegar, of Christiansburg, Va., and S. B. Paul, of New York city.

The Traveler-Spencer Company were represented by Green, Withers and Green, of this city, and former Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith, of Atlanta, Ga., during Cleveland's administration. The factory was destroyed by fire on the morning of the 25th inst. The origin of the fire has never been discovered, and it is supposed to have been incendiary.

PHENOMENAL DARKNESS.

People Get Lost in King William and Holler for Help.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ETNA MILLS, VA., November 7.—Great inconvenience and excitement was caused Saturday night by the phenomenal darkness. It was so dark that it caused several people in the neighborhood who attempted to get to their Saturday night dining at country resorts got lost and some did not get home till morning.

People could be heard howling for help all over the county. It seems that the dark clouds were so low to the ground, people could not see their feet.

Mrs. John Turpin Mitchell is extremely ill. She has an infant a week old.

Pythian Memorial.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

DANVILLE, VA., Nov. 7.—The annual memorial exercises of Pythias, Lodge No. 62, Knights of Pythias, were held in the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon. Chancellor Commander J. H. Alexander, of Leesburg, made the principal address. Rev. E. H. Rawlings, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, delivered the eulogy.

This is the second time that a memorial service has been held by this order here.

RELICS OF AMERICAN STAGE ARE BURNED

Constable Hurst Employed to Buy Stolen Goods.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ALEXANDRIA, VA., Nov. 7.—A fire at Four Mile Run, in Alexandria county, Sunday afternoon destroyed a small group of houses owned by Mrs. Thomas Taylor. Among the articles destroyed were several rare prints and play bills, autographed photographs, water color and pencil sketches by Joseph Jefferson, Thomas Edison and others. The house occupied by Mrs. Taylor and daughter was a landmark in Alexandria county, being about 160 years old.

These cottages have been for many years well known among the leading characters of the theatrical world, and furnished a rendezvous in certain seasons of the year for actors coming to Washington. Among the articles destroyed were several rare prints and play bills, autographed photographs, water color and pencil sketches by Joseph Jefferson, Thomas Edison and others. The house occupied by Mrs. Taylor and daughter was a landmark in Alexandria county, being about 160 years old.

Constable Mordcaid Hurst, of Fairfax county, who was arrested Saturday on the charge of stealing a horse, has been released on his own recognizance by Justice Catton to appear before him November 15th. After the arrest, certain railroad officials of this city informed Justice Catton that Mr. Hurst had been employed by them in the goods stolen from railroad cars in Alexandria, with a view of tracing the thieves.

HAPPY MOTHER'S TOUCHING STORY

Of Baby's Dreadful Suffering from Eczema.

CURED BY CUTICURA.

Now His Skin Is as White as a Snow Flake.

"A terrible rash broke out on Charlie's poor little face and spread to his neck, chest and back. I had never seen anything quite like it before," writes Mrs. Helena Rath of 821 10th Ave., N. Y. City. "The skin rose in little lumps, and matter came out. My baby's skin was hot, and how he didn't suffer. He wouldn't eat, and night after night I walked the floor with him, weak as I was. Often I had to stop because I felt faint and my back throbbed with pain. But the worst pain of all was to see my poor little boy burning with those nasty sores. At last I was persuaded by a friend across the street to try the Cuticura Remedies. She gave me some Cuticura Ointment—I think the box was about half full—and a piece of Cuticura Soap. I followed the directions, bathing Charlie and putting that nice Ointment on the sores. Little by little, but so surely, Charlie and I both got more peace by day and more sleep by night. The sores sort of dried up and went away, and now Charlie is cured completely."

"Yes, that fat little boy by the window is Charlie, and his skin is as white as a snow flake thanks to the Cuticura Remedies. I think everybody should know about the Soap and Ointment, and if it is going to help other mothers with sick babies, go ahead and publish what I have told you."

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Remedies, the famous skin cure, is made by Dr. J. C. Williams, of Lowell, Mass. It is sold in all drug stores, or by mail for 25 cents a box. Write for free sample and full directions. "All About the Skin, Soap and Bath."

CLOSE OF THE CAMPAIGN

The Governor and Swanson Speak Together in Danville.

WYSOR IN WYTHEVILLE

A Great Outpouring of the People at Warsaw to Hear Congressman Jones.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WYTHEVILLE, VA., November 7.—The campaign closed this evening with speeches in the Opera House by Mr. John A. Draper and Hon. J. C. Wysor. Mr. Draper led off in a short and most timely address, which captivated his audience, who frequently showed their appreciation by loud and prolonged applause. It is thought by many that Mr. Draper made the hit of the canvass in his address, and he certainly got in full touch with his audience, and by his wit and withering sarcasm prepared the way for the magnificent oration of the Democratic party by Mr. Wysor.

Mr. Wysor, in his opening statement, said as he had already spoken twice in Wytheville on national issues, he would devote his speech to answering some of the attacks made by Mr. Slom and his followers against the present State Constitution. After touching the most prominent provisions and fully vindicating the wisdom and action of the convention, he paid his respects to some of the Republican leaders of Wythe county, and he handled their public record with gloves off.

He said he did this in retaliation for some statements made by them. Mr. Wysor's speech was clear, manly and straightforward, and at times his flights of oratory elicited such applause that he had to wait for several minutes for it to cease before he could proceed.

The Democrats are thoroughly aroused, and will do good work to-morrow.

MONTAGUE-BARKSDALE.

People of Charlotte Return Them a Vote of Thanks.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTE, C. H., November 7.—This was a great day for the Democratic party in Charlotte county. A great throng of people crowd in to hear Virginia's great Governor, Hon. A. J. Montague, and State Senator W. P. Barksdale. The Governor was presented to the audience by his friend, Mr. J. C. Carrington, and delivered one of the ablest speeches ever heard here. He was applauded to the echo, and at the conclusion of his speech Major R. V. Gaines moved that the Governor be thanked for his magnificent effort, which was carried with a hearty yell.

Senator Barksdale was introduced by B. D. Adams, and made an earnest speech for Democracy. At the conclusion of his speech a vote of thanks was tendered him also.

GREAT OUTPOURING.

Congressman Jones and Dos Passos Address Large Crowd.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WALSH, VA., November 7.—There was a great outpouring of the people of this and adjoining counties at this place to-day, Congressman W. A. Jones had been advertised to close the campaign here, and John R. Dos Passos, the distinguished New Yorker, who has been making brilliant speeches for Parker and Davis in many of the States, also made an address. Both speakers were given a flattering reception, and the outlook for Democracy is most favorable.

MONTAGUE AND SWANSON

Governor and Congressman Close Campaign Together at Danville.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

DANVILLE, VA., November 7.—Governor A. J. Montague and Congressman Claude A. Swanson concluded the Democratic campaign here to-night. The speaking was held in the Academy of Music, which was taxed to its capacity to accommodate the crowds, which included numbers of women.

The time was divided evenly among the two gentlemen, both of whom were accorded ovations.

The issues of the campaign were fully discussed and the voters impressed with the necessity and importance of voting for the nominees of the party in to-morrow's struggle. Discussions were interspersed with applause throughout.

This city and county will roll up a majority for the Democratic party.

Sargent in Princess Anne.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PRINCESS ANNE, VA., November 7.—W. H. Sargent addressed the voters of the county to-day, dwelling with particular force upon the tariff, which he said was filling the coffers of the rich and devastating and taking from the farmers of the South that which was theirs by hard toil. He then took up the character of Roosevelt and his writings, paying particular attention upon the fact that Roosevelt has always

WHAT THE MINISTER SAYS

Is Most Convincing.

"I thought, I would write you what Pyramid Hill Cure has done for me. I had a most aggravated case of bleeding piles; indeed, I dreaded when I had to go to stool. One fifty cent box cured me. I feel like a new man. I have recommended it to others as being the most wonderful remedy known. There is a great blessing in suffering humanity. You are at liberty to use this for all it is worth, and I hope it may do good." Rev. W. E. Carr, 355 No. Hollbrook St., Danville, Va.

Claymen (like all professional men who lead sedentary lives) are especially subject to piles in various forms, and are continually on the lookout for a remedy which will give relief, with little or no idea of obtaining a cure.

Recognizing this fact, Rev. Mr. Carr consents to the use of his name in order that other sufferers may know there is a cure called Pyramid Hill Cure, which is sold by druggists everywhere for the low price of fifty cents a package, and which will bring about for every one afflicted with piles the same beneficial results as in his own case. Be careful to accept no substitutes, and remember that there is no remedy "just as good."

A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and will be sent free for the asking. All sufferers are advised to write for it, as it contains valuable information on the subject of piles.

shown his hatred for the South. He closed with a tribute to Judge Parker.

WILLIAM HENGE MULLER SAYS:

urday showed how well this injunction was observed. Two or three of the jurymen had not read any newspapers at all. The others had read them frequently. Two or three of these had seen nothing bearing upon the case. Several others had seen only the headlines, which it was almost impossible to avoid in scanning the sheets. Mr. Parsons had read from one of the papers, and Mr. Lee's speech (to which the defense did not seem to have very great objection) and Mr. Stockell had gone so far as to read portions of the report. Every man, however, stated upon his oath that the newspaper reading had been absolutely no influence upon him in reaching a decision. It was pointed out by one of the jurymen that what he had read was nothing more nor less than a record of what he had on the day previous seen in the courthouse himself.

Lee and Public Sentiment.

This is the chief ground upon which the fight for a new trial for J. Samuel McCue, convicted murderer of his wife, will be made. The point is regarded by some as being an exceptionally strong one. Others skilled in the law declare that the contention will not carry much weight. The public at large and apparently not unreasonably inclined to believe that the verdict of Saturday will stand, and that McCue will go to the gallows to expiate his crime.

Another interesting point in connection with the motions of the defense is respecting good deal of discussion at the hands of the people. One of the only conceivable effects the reading of the newspapers could have had upon the jurymen would have been to give them some idea of the drift of public sentiment touching the case. This Mr. Lee himself, the leading attorney for the defense, did better and with more consummate eloquence than any newspaper had ever done. Not only did he assuage the newspapers themselves, thereby laying before the jury his opinion of what was contained in them, but he pictured in blood words, a public gasping for the blood of the man at the bar—a public that would, in all probability, heap its criticism and wrath upon any jury that dared acquit him. The combined influence of every newspaper in the land would not have laid upon this feature of the case the emphasis that Mr. Lee went out of his way to put in the presence of the jury.

Approved by People.

So much for what is yet to come in the McCue trial. There is nothing extraordinary in present conditions. Charlottesville is quiet and McCue is in his cell. He says he will not be hung and he anticipates apprehension by declaring that he has no intention of committing suicide. He expects yet to be a free man.

The verdict seems to have met with general approval at the hands of the people. But few men believed McCue innocent. The Charlottesville public, however, or professing to know much that never appeared in court, was and is absolutely convinced of his guilt. Others who have visited the town and in their own way seen things are borne down with the same conviction. The only doubt from beginning to end with a great mass of people has been whether or not the nature of the evidence possible for the Commonwealth to drag before the jury would be sufficient to establish his guilt. This question has been answered.

While the people here rejoice that a criminal should have got his just due, they are not without sympathy for the suffering of those connected with the murderer by family ties. Throughout the trial this has been repeatedly commented upon. A public anxious to see McCue condemned to die was yet quick to sympathize with his brothers, with his children, particularly with his little girl, Ruby, the angel in whose sweet and innocent face will haunt a thousand men and women to their dying day.

Theories of Public.

Now that the trial is over, much discussion is being given to the evidence that served to convict McCue. I have already indicated what carried most weight with the jury—the bloody shirt—and what, contrary to general expectation, carried very little weight at all—the letters of McCue and his wife. There are several inexplicable features of the murder which will probably, unless there is some day a confession, forever remain hidden in mystery.

There never has been a satisfactory explanation of what the woman was doing in the bathtub, and why it was that the tub, which requires fifteen or twenty minutes to fill from the spigot, was full in so much shorter time than that, assuming, as has been done, that the spigot was turned on after the shot.

A new theory is to this effect: That if the murderer was J. Samuel McCue, as the jury and the people believe, he had beaten her and choked her until he thought her dead, and put her into the bathtub and turned on the water to make either the impression that she had committed suicide or to drown her, should a spark of life remain, after which he rushed up Park Street, to the drug store, and reaching the doctor's, then ensued the conversation which was heard by Mrs. Dr. McCue while she was undressing to go to bed. This conversation, she said, took place at the phone. It is believed that what she took for the "phone bell," was the door bell, and that Dr. McCue's brief answer, "All right," was made to his brother at the door.

Returning home, so runs the hypothesis, McCue found his wife not dead, but outside of the tub, which helps to account for the wet condition of the bath-room floor, as to which all agree. Then followed the appeal which Charles McCue made to kill her, as she would die anyhow—and then, too, followed the gunshot, which put an end to all.

If this story be true, it was during the brief time that McCue required to go to his brother's home for pretended aid, or for whatever purpose, that Charles McCue heard the crying for help from three to five minutes. It is held to be entirely improbable that a man in a murderous frenzy would have permitted the crying of his victim for a period even so long as this.

BEAT HIS OWN MOTHER.

Joseph O. B. Cawood, Who Wrote a Famous Letter to Cannon.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

COMMON, VA., Nov. 7.—Mr. Joseph O. B. Cawood, of the famous King George politician, was on Thursday last indicted by the grand jury of King George county, Va., for a charge of assault and battery on his mother. Cawood was one year ago the Republican candidate for the State Senate in this senatorial district, in opposition to C. Harding Walker, the present incumbent.

He is the man who wrote that notorious letter to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, about a year ago, asking certain legislation by the national lawmakers. The letter is remembered as a very remarkable production, and was widely known for being the leading newspaper, making the author famous beyond his county.

TWO KILLED IN A WRECK

Engineer Running Extra and Instructed to Disregard Signals.

RAN INTO AN OPEN SWITCH

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RADFORD, VA., November 7.—Two men were killed and one fearfully injured in a wreck near Walton Sunday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock.

The dead are Engineer Ernest Lynch, of Roanoke, and Harry Kipps, of East Radford, a brakeman learning the road. The injured, the Powers, Jr., a son of Policeman Powers, of East Radford, who is frightfully scalded about the head and face.

The wreck occurred about two miles west of Walton, which is three miles below Radford. The ill-fated train was an extra east-bound freight, and an open switch was the cause of the accident. It is claimed that the engineer had orders to disregard all signals.

The engine was derailed and two or three cars went over an embankment. Both Lynch and Kipps were scalded to death.

Lynch was about thirty-five years old and leaves a wife and three children. His body was brought to East Radford Sunday morning and prepared for burial, and taken to Roanoke at noon, where burial will be made Monday by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Kipps was about thirty years old and leaves a wife and three children. Burial will be made at Blacksburg Monday. Mrs. Kipps was Miss Clara Wappett, of Wytheville.

Fireman Powers will recover, but is frightfully scalded. He had worked for some time on the yard, and had just gone out to learn the road.

SCHOOL DYNAMITED.

Many Glass Broken and Boiler House Destroyed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

HENDERSON, N. C., Nov. 7.—On the eve of rearing Saturday night, between 9 and 10 o'clock, the citizens of Henderson were startled by a terrific explosion, accompanied by some confusion, burning, rattling of windows and breaking glass, and scattering debris several hundred yards in the attempt to wreck the large graded school building by dynamite.
